Geff Bourke

- ▶ Started with film and was driven to understand every aspect of the development process.
- ▶ Like many photographers, he's since transitioned to digital photography, using mirrorless equipment. "Digital photography gives me creative freedom, allowing me to manipulate each image to reflect a particular mood or perspective."
- ▶ Still enjoys shooting with film, which he processes at home and converts to digital format for further exploration
- ▶ His background in graphic arts, which he studied in college, shaped how he composes his images.
- ▶ Understanding design and perspective has had a profound impact on his photography.
- ▶ He hopes you enjoy his galleries – they are a true expression of how he sees the world.
